

Testimonials:

“Tarapoto is a very different world - slower, more organic and intuitive, more natural. I've gotten used to it and deeply appreciate the pace.”

“This was a true Rites of Passage. I feel changed in ways I didn't know I could be. I am living every day in the present moment, without trying, because to experience myself in any other way feels depleting. My senses are so alive, I can feel the energy dynamics between people as clear as the clearest quartz crystal. . . . I have never experienced this state of being so profoundly before. I am so deeply grateful!”

“I would recommend this experience to any person who wants to learn about the communities of the Amazon and help to save their heritage as well as learn about themselves. It was so great to be able to live with the rhythm of nature. The nights in the jungle were noisier than the days thanks to the insects, the frogs, the toads...I was happy to discover the beautiful colors & shapes of animals, plants & flowers.”
